

DATING RESUME

instructions

Welcome to Dating Resume! The number one zine for the chronically single and folks who are tired of dating apps. This zine is meant to act as a launch point to ask out that special someone that you've had your eye on. See this as a brutally honest olive branch, lay everything out on the table and set you and your dating life up for success!

1. How to use this zine

This zine is meant to be printed off and filled out prior to the confession of ~~undying~~ love interest. First, download the pdf and print it off using your own printer, a friends printer, or go to your local office supplies store and have them print it off for you there.

This is a one page zine that can be folded into a little book. Unsure of how to fold this into a book? Use the QR code and follow the tutorial after reading the rest of the instructions.

2. Filling out your information

Once folded, inside you will find a fillable form that you will complete with as much accuracy as you are comfortable with. You will go through:

- Contact Information: to make sure your love interest can reach out to you! Only include your mailing address if you enjoy receiving snail mail, which is romantic in its own way.
- About Me: tell them what you do, be transparent about your mental and financial health, your living situation, and include a few fun facts like your favourite foods and music taste.
- Dating History: show them the picture of what they may be working with, how many people how you slept with, how many people have you dated, do you have kids? Do you want or are you open to non-monogamy?
- Sexual Preferences: share your sexuality and gender identity here, tell them what you like in bed, or what you don't like. Tell them things you have experience with, or don't. Use this section so you can both get right to the point and know where you're at ;)
- Why you should date me: be honest here, sell yourself. This is the cover letter of the dating resume, show them the best parts of yourself. Inside you can use sentence starters like "I am, I can, and I will" to help get your creative juices flowing.
- Potential Red Flags: be honest, where do you fall short in relationships. What might be a turnoff? Here are also two sentence prompts to start your sentences with "I am" and "I can be" to really help you be honest.
- I want to date you because: share why you want to date them, what interests you? Are they drop dead gorgeous? So funny they'd make you snort water out of your nose? Share that here.
- We would make a good match because: Write down what you think makes you a good pair? What makes you compatible? Is it your shared undying love of tuna melts? Or is it something more abstract?

3. Give this zine to your love interest

Once you have filled out all of your information hand this zine to your love interest and wait for their reply. The back cover has a section for them to make their decision.
